New Business:

The Vice Chancellor of Finance and Administration Sylvia James and Vice Chancellor for Planning and Budget Sharie Han talk about 5 non tuition based programs. This is for students to have an open forum and allow discussion. Talks about the adoption of the operation budget which is where a good amount of a student's tuition goes. Tuition based programs are for undergraduate programs and the legislature governs that. Sharie mentions graduate Programs that are self support such as masters of accounting, cybersecurity and leadership, business of mba, and masters of science and administration. Mentions proposed fee increase of %5 for increasing capstone courses, having student training, and more student certificate. Washington College Grant is funded by the legislature. The talk overall informed and educated the senators on the tuition programs for future decisions.

Senator Angell talks about Outreach Training. Talks to senators about how to see more involvement from students when doing tabling. Doing one liners and to catch people's attention like "Win back your tuition." Senators talk about good ways of getting attention from students, conversation starters, and helping everyone in the group improve. Director Heyne says to make sure you have fun, good efficiency, try to make a change for students, and for the senators to get something out of the experience.
