New Business:

Director Song talks about the Graduate Senator Hiring. She has sent the interview documents to all the senators of the two candidates responses during the interview. The first candidate they talked about was Raghvi Baloni. His responses were more aligned with the position and stated he wanted to help representation for graduate students because of the small representation that they have and want to find solutions to help supports students in the long run. Raghvi already has experience advocating for students and attending meetings and wants to be available for students. Director Heyne also stated he was there for the interview and stated in the interview that Raghvi has a general wide lens on all graduate students, not just the one in her major. Director Song talks about the second candidate, Niharika Nasam. Director Song said that Niharika wanted to host more events and to increase the visibility of UW resources so students are more aware and supported. Director Whitten said that Niharika and said she was well prepared for that meeting and she would has good potential to grow and learn as well and has worked in initiatives before and has experience with working with students. Both candidates seemed like good choices and discuss their responses to the interview. Voting was done anonymously through a ballot that had Raghvi and Niharika as options. Senator Wicklund abstained from votin, the rest of the Senators have voted. Raghvi Baloni was voted for graduate senator.
